GROWING CLOUD NATIVE TOGETHER

FOREWORD

KCD Shanghai comes back stronger than ever

After 3 years, KCD came back to Shanghai with the joint efforts of openEuler, DaoCloud, Volcano Engine, Amazon Web Services, China Mobile Cloud and Huawei Cloud. The rich topics, multiple concurrent venues, diverse presentation formats, and many participating open source communities all attracted enthusiasts from all over China, making KCD Shanghai the biggest KCD to date.

This time, KCD followed the development of AI in infrastructure, delved into cloud-native infrastructure and operating system construction, and also focused on how to attract and help newbies and university students to participate in cloud-native and open source.

The Q&A on stage, the social communication off stage, and the constant full house in the main venue and several sub-forums all exuded the enthusiasm and charm of open source and offline activities.

SPEAKERS & Talks

The event consisted of a Cloud Native main forum and three sub-forums: AI & Cloud, Cloud Native Infrastructure & OS, and Cloud Native Novice & Open Source Education, which delved into AI, Cloud Native, OS, and Open Source Education.

The rich sessions and forums attracted more than 300 attendees.
